

Seminar purpose and overview

The CPA EMEA International Technical Seminar gives members a platform to exchange knowledge on business topics between each other, to increase technical know-how to identify clients needs for developing business opportunities and, naturally, to increase referrals.

Who should attend

The technical seminar is open to everyone but in particular will be of interest to the younger professional and experienced professional. We are keen to encourage member firms to send along non-partners as it is a fantastic development opportunity for them to learn from fellow colleagues from around the region. Don't forget that non-partners can take advantage of the discounted delegate rate.

Thursday Afternoon

As last year we are continuing with a specific session to start the seminar focussing on all the developments taking place with the Association. More information will be available in due course but we expect to cover member services and tools such as the client database, the preferred service providers and website developments.

Friday sessions

The technical part of the seminar is to keep everyone up to date current issues concerning international tax structures covering BEPS developments and the multilateral instrument.

We will continue with the successful afternoon case study sessions where delegates are able to see current projects between members, how they have been solved and what issues were addressed.

If you have a case study you would like to present, please email Andreas Klier at Pape & Co (Andreas.Klier@pape-co.de) who is preparing these sessions.
