Right in the heart of Milan's fashionable Via Tortona, the nhow Milano is a modern hotel design, providing an artistic, cosmopolitan home-from-home, great for exploring all the Design District has to offer.

- close to the Navigli, with its lively bars and restaurants
- iconic building designed by Matteo Thun – formerly the home of General Electric
- 10 minutes' walk from Porta Genova metro station
- in front of the MUDEC museum and a stone's throw from the Armani Silos

Following the new hotel design trends the 246 rooms and suites are intimate and individual. Considered as one of the best hotel design, you'll find eclectic furniture (some designed especially for the hotel), a vibrant color palette and lots of clever touches, like Jacuzzis in some of the suites.

Settle into the stylish restaurant, where the creative Chef puts his own twist on traditional Italian cuisine.

In the lounge bar, designed by Karim Rashid, you can sip a cocktail surrounded by modernist elegance. And in the lobby, browse the regular art exhibitions, where both the pictures and the furniture change every six months.
